Background

A frequently asked question is, “How many naturists/nudists are there in Canada?” It is a difficult question to answer, since naturism is a state of mind and many people are not interested in the label. The thousands of naturists who belong to Canada’s approximately 50 clubs are easy enough to count. However, what about those who visit clothing-optional beaches? For example, Wreck Beach in Vancouver can easily have 5,000 visitors on a nice summer’s day. What about those who like to be nude at their cottage, in their backyard or in a secluded spot? What about those who take vacations to naturist resorts or beaches around the world?

To answer these questions, the Federation of Canadian Naturists commissioned Market Facts of Canada, Ltd. to survey the Canadian population so that we could determine how many Canadians had the “naturist mindset.”

The survey was conducted from January to February 1999 through the Market Facts’ Consumer Mail Panel omnibus survey. Representative samples were drawn by computer random selection within precise census-defined strata: by province and within province by age, household income, population density, home tenure and by language within Quebec. To ensure that the return sample was also representative, returns were weighted to the same set of criteria. The gross mailout sample was 2,300 with 1,172 having responded to the questions.

2.7 Million Nudists/Naturists in Canada

In a survey commissioned earlier this year, the Federation of Canadian Naturists determined that 2.7 million Canadians have a naturist/nudist mindset because they either visit or are willing to visit clothing-optional beaches or naturist clubs and resorts.

A further 3.5 million Canadians have naturist tendencies because they are comfortable with skinny-dipping in mixed company. This gives us a total of 6.1 million Canadian who have some interest in naturism.

The survey also reveals that while naturists can be found everywhere, they tend to be more common in urban areas. They are also more likely to have a higher income.

“We wanted to know how many naturists there were in Canada,” says Stéphane Deschênes, a director in the Federation of Canadian Naturists.

“Naturism is a state of mind, not a label,” Deschênes explained. He adds that a survey was the only way to count the many Canadians who only practice naturism in secluded spots or while on vacation.

The survey points out the need for the development of more naturist recreational areas. There are approximately 50 naturist clubs in Canada but many Canadians live too far away from them. Currently, only Toronto and Vancouver have official clothing-optional beaches.

“We hope that this survey will emphasize to governments that naturism is a popular recreational option that needs to be provided for,” says Deschênes. “We need to start treating naturism for what it is – a wholesome activity which encourages a healthy mind and body.”

As defined by the International Naturist Federation, Naturism is a way of life in harmony with nature, characterized by the practice of communal nudity, with the intention of encouraging respect for oneself, respect for others and for the environment.

The Federation of Canadian Naturists (FCN) and La Fédération Québécoise de Naturisme (FQN) together constitute the national naturist/nudist organization in Canada recognized by the International Naturist Federation (INF). The FCN:

- promotes naturism/nudism to Canadians
- helps naturists/nudists find how and where they may enjoy the naturist/nudist lifestyle
- represents the interests of Canadian naturist/nudist individuals, families, clubs, resorts, and organizations.

The International Naturist Federation (INF) represents naturists in over 30 countries. Founded in August 1953 at the Montalivet naturist resort in France and based in Belgium, it is dedicated to the world-wide acceptance of naturist ideals and lifestyle-recreational social nudism.

Survey Conclusions

- 8.9% of Canadian households or approximately 2.7 million Canadians have the naturist/nudist mindset (have gone or would go to a nude beach and/or club/resort).
- A further 11.6% of Canadian households or 3.5 million Canadians have naturist/nudist tendencies, since they have gone or would go skinny-dipping in mixed company. That means a total of 20.5% of households or 6.1 million Canadians have some interest in naturism.
- Naturists/nudists tend to have above average incomes.

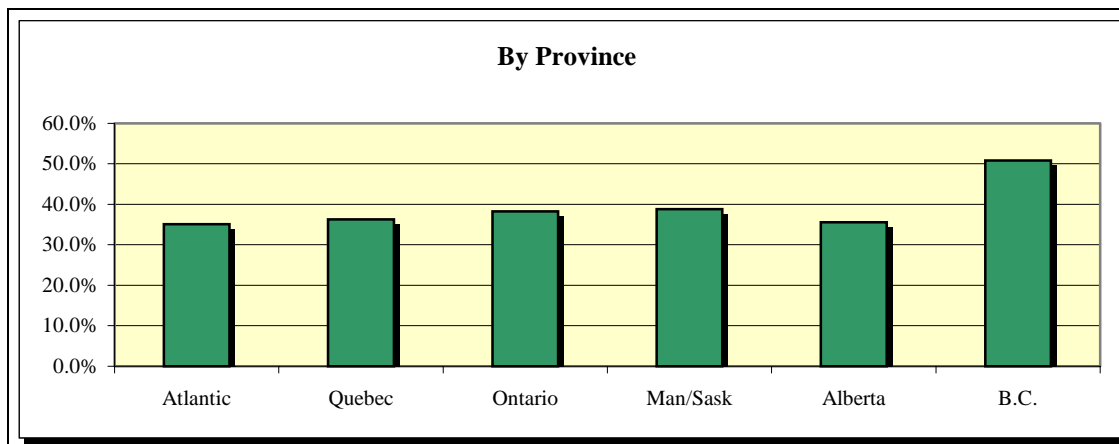

- People who live in urban areas are more likely to be naturists.

- People who are under 54 years of age are more likely to be naturists.

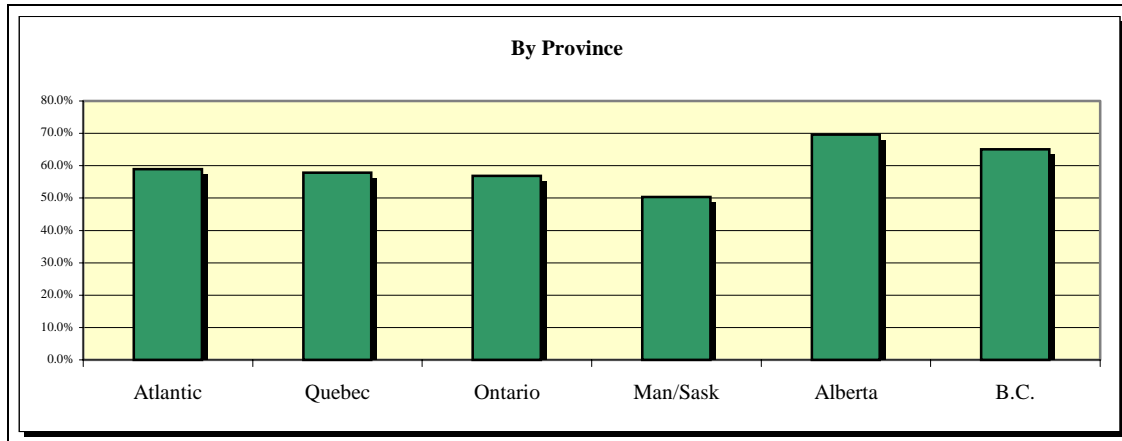

- People under 25 years of age are the most likely to engage in one of the activities (visiting a naturist club/resort, visiting a nude beach, skinny-dipping, walking around the house nude, or sleeping nude).
- 39% of Canadian households or 11.8 million Canadians have walked or would walk around their house nude.
- People in British Columbia are much more likely than in any other province to walk around their house nude.

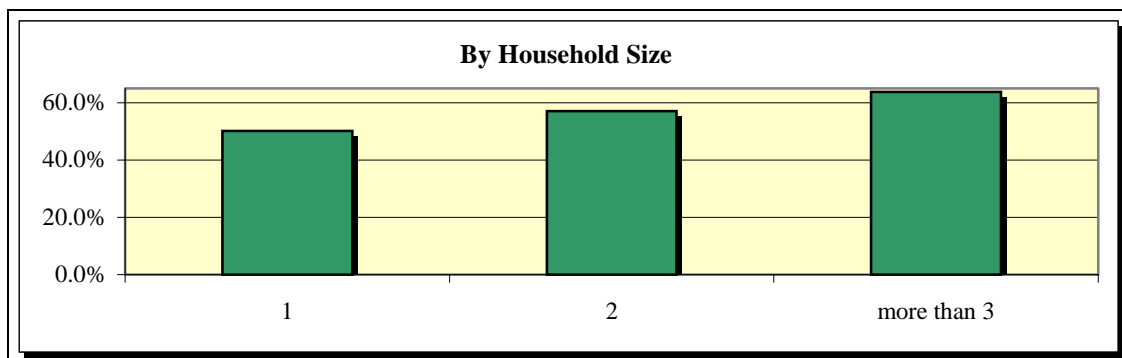

- 59% of Canadian households or 17.9 million Canadians have slept or would sleep nude.

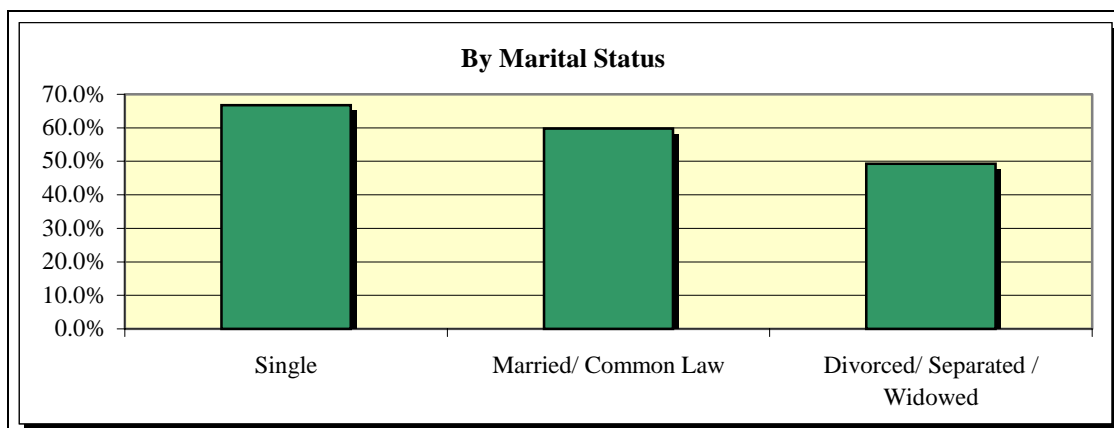

- People in Alberta and British Columbia are more likely to sleep nude than in any other province.

- The more people in the household, the greater the chance that people sleep nude.

- Singles are more likely to sleep nude than married couples.

Note: Only conclusions which are meaningful and statistically significant are listed here. A cursory review of the data may suggest other conclusions but the sample size or the difference between results is too small.
